ART RETREAT REVIEW

I am a very busy working mother who has come to know Dr. Pace through the classes she offers children, including mine. The Art Retreat was a welcome respite from the pressures of everyday life and wonderful opportunity to spend quality time reflecting and refreshing myself and my relationship with God. While I am far from an artist, Dr. Pace guided me to understand that the joy is in the process not the product! Plus, now I have another piece of artwork for my refrigerator! I highly recommend taking the time to attend this retreat!

Meet the Director

PATRICIA SISCA PACE has a Ph.D. in psychology from the University of Southern California and a certification in spiritual direction from the Jesuit Center for Spiritual Growth in Wernersville, Pennsylvania. To cultivate the inner life of all those under her care, she incorporates aspects of psychology and spiritual direction in ground-breaking spiritual-academic programs, helping learners, and their families, take their talents seriously and perform at their best. She is the author of the book The Last of the Dragon Slayers: The Ultimate Guides to Personal Best Performance, and the CD Tests, Learning, Talent: Slaying Dragons. Coloring Without Lines profoundly illustrates how the spiritual world uses our creativity to break into reality and guide us to our own healing and wholeness, as well as to our work in the world. ART RETREAT REVIEW

I attended Dr. Pace's Pastel Art Retreat, not really knowing what to expect. I am not a religious person, but definitely a spiritual one, and I was not sure if I would find something meaningful for my personal journey. From the beginning of the retreat, the environment was warm and inviting. Dr. Pace assured us that there were no requirements to have artistic ability and no expectations other than to just open oneself to the movement of chalk on paper, and invite in whatever might be there for each of us. Quite to my surprise, I found it to be deeply moving encounter, as it tapped into something in me that was not anticipated. The experience on this retreat has now become part of my own personal spiritual journey. I thank Dr. Pace and her staff who provided a safe and comfortable setting and I look forward to future retreats.

ART RETREAT REVIEW

*I recently attended Dr. Pace's art retreat, based on her book Coloring Without Lines: Art of the New Covenant. As a parent of several of her former students, I knew Dr. Pace to be an effective teacher and was intrigued by the idea of the retreat. However, as a person of nebulous conceptions of faith and God, and with limited experience with art, I was unsure about how I would "fit in" in a spiritual retreat based on creating art.*

The retreat experience was completely engaging. The structure of the workshop and Dr. Pace's clear step-by-step directions provided a safe space for exploring the connections to one's spiritual life. The entire process – listening, meditating on questions, writing, and using art materials, all in a supportive, peaceful setting – was as meaningful as the piece of art created.

Throughout the retreat, I felt there was room for me, as there was for all present, due to Dr. Pace's gentle encouragement and acceptance during the process.

I really, really, enjoyed it, and I am so grateful for having had this experience!

ART RETREAT REVIEW

Went to Dr. Pace's Art Retreat. It is amazing how easily Dr. Pace explains everything and what miraculously shows up on the page as a result. Thank you Dr. Pace!

You're Invited TO A GALLERY EVENT

On Friday, November 30, from 6 to 8:30 p.m., Dr. Pace will host a free event at her gallery in Northeast Philadelphia (Assumption Peace House—directions will be provided). The evening will include a video, a discussion about her art images, and an introduction to the imaginative prayer technique she describes in her book. Space for the Gallery Event is limited to 13 people.

Because space is limited in the free art gallery event, reservations are necessary.

TO RESERVE A SPOT
