NEW

ONE-YEAR ART RETREAT

Monthly meetings to learn the art technique and the spiritual underpinnings of the process, and to share with each other. This long program will allow people the time necessary to discover more deeply their own stories and to write them (if they so choose), as I discovered and wrote mine. A year will also allow the participants to see patterns in their images emerge over time, as I describe in my book, which we will use as a guide. Also, this program will serve as a training program for those people who would like to share the technique with others.

The long art retreat program will begin this fall. Limited seating.

ART RETREAT REVIEW

I recently attended Dr. Pace's art retreat, based on her book Coloring Without Lines: Art of the New Covenant. As a parent of several of her former students, I knew Dr. Pace to be an effective teacher and was intrigued by the idea of the retreat. However, as a person of nebulous conceptions of faith and God, and with limited experience with art, I was unsure about how I would "fit in" in a spiritual retreat based on creating art.

The retreat experience was completely engaging. The structure of the workshop and Dr. Pace's clear step-by-step directions provided a safe space for exploring the connections to one's spiritual life. The entire process – listening, meditating on questions, writing, and using art materials, all in a supportive, peaceful setting – was as meaningful as the piece of art created.

Throughout the retreat, I felt there was room for me, as there was for all present, due to Dr. Pace's gentle encouragement and acceptance during the process.

I really, really, enjoyed it, and I am so grateful for having had this experience!

ART RETREAT REVIEW

I attended Dr. Pace's Pastel Art Retreat, not really knowing what to expect. I am not a religious person, but definitely a spiritual one, and I was not sure if I would find something meaningful for my personal journey. From the beginning of the retreat, the environment was warm and inviting. Dr. Pace assured us that there were no requirements to have artistic ability and no expectations other than to just open oneself to the movement of chalk on paper, and invite in whatever might be there for each of us. Quite to my surprise, I found it to be deeply moving encounter, as it tapped into something in me that was not anticipated. The experience on this retreat has now become part of my own personal spiritual journey. I thank Dr. Pace and her staff who provided a safe and comfortable setting and I look forward to future retreats.
